Kelley School of Business - Indiana University: AGILE Field Trip at ALBA in Athens

"The AGILE Greece trip was an extremely valuable part of my education; so much so that I found myself telling my parents all about it before I had even left Greece. I have already gone over the various things I am going to describe to my employer about the trip the moment I get back as well. I found myself immersed in the program and feel it has been my most significant educational experience to date. The AGILE Greece program was completely worthwhile and will help me succeed for many years to come."

"AGILE Greece was a life changing experience in both my current MBA program and my future potential career."

Students teams of Kelley School of Business at Indiana University (#15 in Business Week Rankings), offered free consulting to Greek local companies, in the framework of an innovative course of their MBA curriculum. AGILE project, is offered in several countries around the world. ALBA Graduate Business School at the American College of Greece, in close cooperation with Kelley, facilitated the Program implementation in Greece for 2015 and 2016 (AGILE 2.0). Part of this implementation was the identification of local companies that wish to participate in AGILE and work with the Kelley MBA students on a real business project. For 3 months the Greek companies worked together with the Kelley student teams via skype and e-mail. In May 2015 Kelley students visited Athens in order to present their consulting project directly to the Greek companies. The companies received high quality consultation from the students while students had the chance to work for businesses that face challenging issues in a very challenging environment in Greece. The students had also the chance to network with ALBA MBA students in a special organized event.
